The Game Connection Haunted Experience™ is a new way to experience the paranormal. We use a 4-6 interactive entertainment stations that are safe for children. Allowing guests to interact with the paranormal by playing video games and triggering their paranormal manifestations. Through two different experiences – the Haunted Experience and the Interactive Experience customers will learn more about the paranormal and most of all they will have a great time while trying to figure out what just happened to them. -The Program has been carefully designed to allow for a cost-effective entry-aesthetics to the haunt in the virtual world. By combining concepts from Virtual Reality with those from Theater-Haunting™ we have created a haunt of astounding beauty that will let you surrender to the occult along with your friends. We now invite you to experience the new take on the haunt industry with us! -In addition to amusement park style haunt, we also offer “interactive entertainment stations.” There, a professional of the paranormal will be on hand to explain the science behind the haunt to you and your friends. He will answer questions you may have and will also help you experience the haunt. This will increase your time spent in the haunt experience and will give you a greater understanding of the paranormal. And the best thing is you can have a great time all by yourself! -Guests to our experience are welcome to come as they are and we are sure that after exploring our haunted maze, they will want to come back. We will be open Wednesday, Saturday and Sunday evenings and we will open to the public in October. Visit our site now or call to request a tour and feel free to email us for any further information! What's new in Sacrifice Your Friends:

Mask of Sanity is the third studio album by American heavy metal band Slipknot, released on March 5, 2004, by Roadrunner Records. Produced by Joey Jordison, the album explores an alternative sound to Slipknot's pioneering style, incorporating styles such as nu metal, crossover thrash, progressive metal, and groove metal into Slipknot's best-known sound. In a 2015 interview with Kerrang!, drummer Joey Jordison admitted that he wrote all the riffs for Mask of Sanity on acoustic guitar, but managed to "dig out a couple of great ones on the bass," as he had only been playing bass for one month prior to recording. Mask of Sanity showed its personnel changes. Current members Corey Taylor and Shawn "Clown" Crahan, who both contributed in Slipknot, left the band after the recording process. Following their departures, it was Wes Borland, with the exception of the two singles "Dirk Pod" and "Here I Stand", who were written by Corey Taylor, who became only a producer and vocalist, and Paul Gray, who contributed as a guitarist, co-wrote three songs. The album was well received by critics, who cited the new influences, as well as its dark and aggressive nature and production, as Slipknot's strongest release, further gaining the band a wider mainstream audience. It has since sold over eight million copies worldwide. Production and writing After the production and release of Iowa (1996) and Iowa Is for Adults (1998), Slipknot's second full-length studio album, Slipknot did not have any other album in development until 2002, when songwriting began on the next album. Joey Jordison and Wes Borland spent the remaining part of 2000 and 2001 producing five demos, two of which were for "All Hope Is Gone", which would be the first single, and one which would become "Dirk Pod". While Corey Taylor was of the opinion that Iowa was strong, he called Broken Minds "...too poppy and childish for my tastes," while Taylor had "clarity to his songwriting" on Iowa and that Mask of Sanity helped bring "...[it] back to a more heavier metal style." The album, which ultimately borrowed from what Corey Taylor called '80s metal, is the first Slipknot album since Iowa Is for Adults to feature the band's two founding members—Paul Gray and Chris Fehn—playing drums and bass, respectively. After recording was complete,

A former Rove aide is thinking about bolting over the pernicious, divisive group of Republican operatives that call themselves "wingnuts" and call themselves "dittoheads." Tony Perkins, President of the Family Research Council, says that the danger to conservatism and even fiscal responsibility is "dickheads" because not all conservatives are the same, but they all "would [not] look back on this era with pride." Perkins says that "if we were to get back to the God who promised us his only begotten son, we would all be reminded that the cornerstone of conservative thought is grace, believing in the ingenuity of human beings, not the giftedness of their birth, and the desire to live by and love what Christ commanded and... elect[ing] a republican form of government to reflect his desire for a republic founded on the rule of law and not the rule of man. Unfortunately, the religious Right is self-destructing due to a growing emphasis on social issues, from abortion to same-sex marriage, at the expense of reflecting the true conservative vision for America." (For the Wall Street Journal, 4-8-07)Q: Which setting would you recommend for pageant-sized walls? Where I live (and probably most of the rest of the world) walls require a lot of paint for external and internal surfaces. To avoid excess paint I mainly prefer to stick to tarps rather than walls. However, since I'm sitting inside an animal skin for most of the year anyway, it would be a lot easier to have solid walls rather than tarps. Ideally I
