The affinity of the radioligand N, N-dipropyl-2-[125I]iodo-3-m-tolyl benzyl guanidine (125I-DAMB) for mu- and kappa-receptors in rat brain membranes has been determined. In the presence of naloxone (100 nM), the binding of 125I-DAMB to mu-receptors (from cortex, cerebellum and hippocampus) was displaced with an IC50 of 3-5 nM. The other kappa-agonists (0.1-0.5 nM) were only partially displaceable. The IC50 values for kappa-receptors (from cortex and cerebellum) were about 10 nM, whereas the lowest
