"the concern animating the savings clause is that the specialized competence of the bankruptcy courts should be `decided in the first instance by the bankruptcy court"). III 12 Based on the facts of this case, we hold that this appeal is moot and we vacate the district court's decision without reaching the merits of the bankruptcy court's decision. 13 We agree with the district court that the circumstances in this case satisfy two of the exceptions to the mootness doctrine set forth by the Supreme Court in American Ins. Co. v. Geehan, 112 S. Ct. 2111 (1992). First, "there may be collateral consequences resulting from the underlying bankruptcy proceeding," American Ins. Co., 112 S. Ct. at 2117, and second, there may be "a likelihood that the result in the [dispute] will affect the estate being administered in bankruptcy," id. We do not agree, however, with the district court's holding that the case presents those "special circumstances" that are both "likely to recur" and "capable of repetition yet evading review." See id. Those two requirements, by their nature, are mutually exclusive. A "special circumstance" is a "circumstance in which the Supreme Court held that there was sufficient likelihood that the plaintiff would again face the issue raised, yet able to obtain full review by waiting for the case to become moot." Walker v. City of Mesquite, 129 F.3d 831, 832-33 (5th Cir. 1997). "In contrast, a case will not be moot if the possibility exists that the complaining party may be subject to the same action again." Id. at 832 (citing Murphy v. Hunt, 455 U.S. 478, 482 (1982)) (internal quotations omitted). 14 The first two exceptions to the mootness doctrine in American Ins. Co. v. Geehan did not involve a dispute between a debtor and a third
